

TO: The Drama Teacher

Teaching Lighting & Lighting Design in the Classroom

A Workshop for Teachers

When: Saturday May 1, 2010

10am – 4pm

Where: Downstairs Theatre,
Belvoir St Theatre,
25 Belvoir Street, Surry Hills

Cost: $130 per person; including workshop & resource material, lunch & morning tea

Lighting designer Stephen Hawker will take teachers through a variety of approaches to teaching lighting and lighting design in the classroom.

WHAT OTHER TEACHERS HAVE SAID ABOUT THIS WORKSHOP -

“The most comprehensive workshop I’ve done for Drama & Entertainment teaching purposes”

“Very practical and less daunting than I anticipated”

During the workshop Stephen will explore with teachers:

- ◆ The process of lighting a show from the first script reading to opening night
- ◆ The principles of lighting design including lamp selection and lamp position, colour and the intensity and timing of lighting cues
- ◆ The paperwork used by a professional lighting designer
- ◆ Approaches to teaching the above on a limited budget with limited equipment

The workshop will include practical activities in lighting design, including solving common lighting problems, using a variety of different light sources.

Examples of a professional designer’s paperwork and a written overview of the workshop will be provided to teachers during the workshop.
